Questions you must ASK yourself

Ques 1: Which stream is best for CLAT?

Ans : Reality Check, No stream is inherently superior for CLAT; each stream has its unique advantages. A background in humanities can help develop skills like critical thinking, research, and analytical reasoning. A background in commerce can be beneficial for understanding commercial laws, and a background in science can bring the unique analytical and problem-solving approach to the table. The rigorous analytical and logical thinking skills acquired in science can be advantageous in areas of Law that require detailed analysis. Ultimately, while your academic background can provide a foundational perspective, the legal profession is diverse, and lawyers come from various streams. What's crucial is developing skills like critical thinking, communication, research, and ethical judgment, irrespective of your stream.

Ques 2: Can I be a good lawyer if I am not a good speaker?

Ans : Certainly, being a good speaker is beneficial for a lawyer, especially when it comes to presenting arguments in court, persuading clients, or negotiating settlements. However, the legal profession encompasses a broad range of roles and skills, and effective speaking is just one of them. Not every lawyer is required to appear in court regularly or advocate orally. Many lawyers work in areas like research, drafting contracts, advising clients, legal research, and writing opinions. These roles may not necessitate frequent public speaking. Moreover, all abilities are malleable and can be developed over time.

Ques 3: Can I balance School and CLAT preparation together and how?

Ans : Yes, you can definitely balance School and CLAT simultaneously. Infact, proper time management and strategies can help you ace both preparations at the fullest.

Here's a structured approach to help you manage both:

- ✔ Create a schedule
- ✔ Align your classes with your study materials and do not keep anything pending
- ✔ Utilize weekends and holidays. Since weekends and holidays are typically free from school commitments, use this time for more intensive CLAT preparation.
- ✔ Review what you've learned during the week and work on practice tests or mock exams.

Ques 4: When should I start preparing for CLAT?

Ans : Ideally one should start preparing for CLAT from 11th standard. The initial 3-6 months should be devoted to building In-depth conceptual clarity and the rest of the months on Current Affairs, practice and attempting mocks, without compromising on your boards' preparation. However, CLAT is concept based test and therefore, it is never too late to start. Even if you begin 6-8 months before focus on conceptual clarity, practice, mocks and working on mistakes simultaneously throughout your preparation.

Ques 5: Is Law as a career as rewarding as IIT JEE or NEET?

Ans : Both paths offer different challenges, rewards, and opportunities for individuals based on their interests, skills, and aspirations. Both are financially rewarding, but the paths and timelines will differ. It is subjective and depends on individual perspectives, interests, and goals. It's essential to evaluate one's passions, strengths, and aspirations when choosing a career path rather than solely comparing them based on external perceptions of prestige or reward.

ARJIT, AIR 7 - CLAT 2024
"Every step from becoming a dropper to becoming the 7th rank in CLAT 2024 has been a testament to resilience and support. LegalEdge became my compass, providing dependable mentorship, valuable mock exams, & enriching study materials that shaped my success. Their guidance was the catalyst for my transformation, helping me navigate the intricate maze of preparation. My family's constant belief kept me going when things were difficult, making me feel like I could achieve anything. This journey demonstrates how working hard, getting help, and believing in yourself can turn things around after a setback. It proves that with the right assistance and a strong support system, even the most difficult goals can be achieved. My experience shows that staying strong and having people who believe in you can make big dreams come true."

YASHASVI, AIR 8 - CLAT 2024
"While I hesitated a bit when I first decided to take a drop, settling for a third tier NLU was not something I could force myself to do....LE's mocks really were a saviour. Their high LOD prepared me for the worst, & elaborate explanations helped me analyze my performance to the maximum degree. The strategy sessions and GK/CA marathons pushed me to do better, to improve upon my shortcomings. I am grateful to have been guided by such brilliant educators, who are so dedicated to their work. Having faith in your mentors is a must for achieving something. A million thanks to them for putting in so much efforts into it, that made my CLAT journey so fruitful and worth remembering."

ASHUTOSH, AIR 10 - CLAT 2024

"My journey to the National Law School of India University,

Bengaluru started off with much uncertainty and apprehension. I stumbled upon the Common Law Entrance Test in Class 10. Realising law as a lucrative career in the field I was inclined towards, I decided to embark on this challenge of tackling Science stream studies with self-study for CLAT subjects.

A lack of guidance and companionship made me anxious as to whether I was on the right path in my preparation. Receiving their Rankers Study Materials, GMBs and being able to attend a few classes helped me in curbing the sense of isolation I faced earlier. I'm immensely grateful to LE for recognising potential and aiding me in this uphill battle."

AASTHA, AIR 16 - CLAT 2024

"The study material, including the RSMs and GMB, were detailed and explained difficult concepts in an easy way. The exhaustive amount of practice questions and high LOD of mocks showed me what to expect on the Day. The in-depth solutions and analysis of all Mocks, GK Fiestas and sectional tests helped me rectify my mistakes. My mentors guided me through the highs and lows of my preparation. I am very grateful to LegalEdge for their support and guidance throughout my CLAT prep and for getting me to NLSIU."

CLAT Post:

The only and ultimate monthly current affairs magazine for CLAT Aspirants with theory, 200+ questions, and explanations that are relevant to CLAT and OLET syllabus. It covers all minor and major topics of Current Affairs and Current Legal Knowledge. In the words of selected students, if they are done with LE Current Affairs, everything is covered.

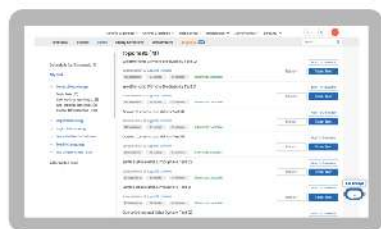

Full Length Mock Tests:

These tests are based on the current paper pattern of the examination. These are full length tests consisting of the complete syllabus of all the sections of the examination with diversity of questions. Easy-Moderate-Difficult, LE mocks cover it all. If you solve LE mocks, you are prepared for every worst-case scenario. It covers all possible genres and questions that can be asked in the examination. It also helps a student to identify his/her weaknesses and work on them.

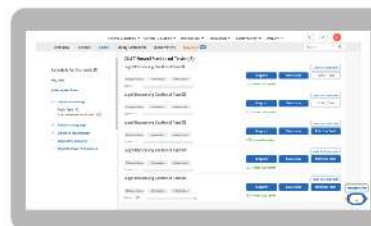

Topic Tests:

These tests are available on your portal which evaluates your command over the Topic. A student might not be well-versed or strong with every topic and these tests help the student in identifying and working on these topics. A student is expected to take these tests once he is done with one topic to evaluate his command over that topic. No major topic is left uncovered, and you have a diversity of questions here as well.

Sectional Tests:

These tests are available on your portal which evaluates your command over the particular section. A student not only identifies his/her mistakes from these but also gets to work on them. It covers a complete range of diversified questions that covers a variety of genres and gives students extra detailed practice for each and every section.
